Why Hydratec Site Services?

When you are commissioning a sub-contractor to undertake work on your behalf, particularly when your customers are present, choosing the right sub-contractor can be somewhat challenging!

Now in our 22nd year, Hydratec has become one of the best-known names in the industry for hydraulic lift specialisation.

Our entire ethos is to work as partners with our clients, providing a level of dedication normally only found from directly employed engineers and technicians. We support this by never working directly for an end-user and always presenting ourselves as part of our customers' teams. We are always strict about branding and our customers have the knowledge and assurance that their customers never see any Hydratec branding – our vehicles, work-wear and our site paperwork carry no logos or contact details.

We offer a totally unbiased service and have no allegiance to any one manufacturer, but as expected we have close relationships with all, so when undertaking consultancy work or simply straightforward advice, we offer independent, impartial support that's always in our customers' best interests.

A subject that is frequently raised in our industry is transparency and almost always over costs. We address this issue in two ways: firstly, providing transparent cost options for our services where possible, and secondly, to provide exactly what is needed; we do not build jobs, just relationships.

We cover the whole of England and Wales and have experienced technicians with mates available to undertake repairs, maintenance, upgrades, modernisation and installation. All of our on-site work is fully guaranteed and all call-backs specifically relating to our work or the parts we used have the assurance of a 12 month cost-free warranty.

Hydratec are often asked to assist with hydraulic consultation services by global, national and independent lift companies; we help with site surveys, and will provide best solution advice for upgrades and modernisation projects. Additionally, to help customers develop their own engineers and mates, we offer lift engineer training on a fully working hydraulic lift and a range of valves and drives at our recently fitted training centre in Hampshire.
